Clothed with the Virtues of Christ

In Colossians 3 the Christian life is positively described as a set of characteristic “clothing” worn by Christians. The idea is that certain virtues fit Christians especially well—compassion, for example, as well as humility, patience, forgiveness, and “love that binds these virtues together in perfect harmony.” What are these virtues like? What are their counterfeits? How would a person hope to get them? How may Christians receive the counsel to “clothe yourselves with the virtues of Christ” not simply as moral duty, but also as glad invitation?

Friday night: Clothed with Compassion

Saturday morning: Clothed with Humility

Saturday afternoon: Clothed with Forgiveness

Biographical Information:

Dr. Plantinga is an ordained minister in the Christian Reformed Church and has served as a pastor in Webster, NY and supply preacher in Cliffwood Beach, NJ. Before joining the faculty at Calvin Theological Seminary, Cornelius Plantinga, Jr. taught at Princeton Theological Seminary (1976-78), Fuller Theological Seminary (1985, 1987) and Regent College (1997). From 1996 to 2002 he served as the first Dean of the Chapel at Calvin College. He now serves as President of the seminary and teaches systemic theology. He has written several books including Not the Way It's Supposed to Be: A Breviary of Sin; Engaging God's World: A Christian Vision of Faith, Learning and Living; and Discerning the Spirits: A Guide to Thinking about Christian Worship
